

Jerzy Perzanowski

Department of Logical Philosophy and Cognitive Science, Jagiellonian University

Chair of Logic, Ignatianum, Kraków

e-mail: j.perzanowski@iphils.uj.edu.pl

PL – Metaphysics Today (Abstract)

The first letter in the prefix PL is taken from the name Plato, whereas the second one – from the name Leibniz. PL metaphysics means therefore Platonic and Leibnizian line of Western metaphysics. In particular it means its post – Leibnizian, logical and mathematical in form and spirit, formulation.

PL metaphysics is, for sure, the main stream of European metaphysics. In the last twenty five years we observe both in philosophy with logic (logical philosophy) and in mathematics, as well as in science, growing interest in it, with new ideas and theories. In my talk I should like to outline the present PL metaphysics, in particular emerging logical monadology.